Company mission statement

"To improve the lives of the communities and customers that we serve by leading the way in innovative services and sustainable energy solutions"

ENGIE develops and implements solutions that improve the performance and efficiency of buildings, industry, infrastructure and cities.

The business has well-established and diverse operations that include the delivery of facilities management, technical and business services to more than 14,000 customer sites across the public, private and healthcare sectors - as well as providing energy services and power & gas to thousands of UK businesses. With pan-European and Global capabilities, ENGIE is also able to tailor contracts across borders, ensuring that multi-national companies receive a consistent service to stringent KPI's.

Our strategy is based on the integration of our broad services offer with our energy expertise, and innovating in customer-led solutions and technologies.

We guarantee transformational outcomes - from reducing cost & environmental impact and maximising operational resilience, to improving the quality & efficiency of business processes. Our customers are also provided with a wide choice of stand-alone or integrated deliveries to suit individual workplace needs.

Complete solutions for a sustainable future

The world around us is changing rapidly, transforming the way people access and consume energy and placing an increasing demand on a growing services sector. The landscape of both energy and business services is undergoing a major transition, progressively shifting to a lower carbon, decentralised economy. In parallel, there is greater emphasis on more flexible, sustainable energy sources that are converging with the need for cost-efficient delivery of services for the built environment. Providing solutions to these challenges requires in-depth knowledge, experience and a customer-led approach - all driven by the new technologies of a digital world.

At ENGIE we have evolved our business to provide a fresh perspective on today's challenges, creating an organisation that has the agility and vision to anticipate the future needs of our customers. ENGIE is positioned to support the growth and efficient operation of our customers' businesses and the communities they serve.
